White Elephant Gift Exchange Rules

The Ring 1 Annual White Elephant Gift Exchange hosted by Terry Richison.

Traditionally, a "White Elephant" is something lying around the house that you don't want (some horridly ugly item that someone gave you as a gift.) For our meeting we are asking you to bring a magic item for our white elephant get together.

Here are the rules:

If you would like to come to the meeting and just enjoy the evening, there is no requirement that you have to participate in the White Elephant exchange. Each person wanting to participate in the Gift exchange must bring a WRAPPED, COMPLETE magic effect, INCLUDING INSTRUCTIONS if needed. The effect does not have to be new, but it must be in presentable and working shape and no less than $5 in value if new.

Participants will sit in a circle with the packages in a pile in the middle. Each person participating will draw a number out of a hat. The lowest number goes first and selects a present from the pile. Once a present is selected from the pile of gifts, the trick is unwrapped for all to see. The next person may choose from the wrapped pile of gift or may "take" the present from one that has been selected by another. The person that lost the gift may choose to select a gift from the unopened pile, or may take a present from another person. A single gift can only be stolen a total of 3 times. This is continued until all of the presents are exhausted or everyone has a gift. As an added bonus, it is a known fact that there will be at least one gift that will be worth over $50 and New to boot! You might be the lucky one!

The meeting will be open to immediate family members. Anyone who brings a gift is allowed to participate in the White Elephant. We would like to get a rough number of people that are coming we will have people call or email Larry Skorepa at toolmanlarry@sbcglobal.net or (636) 675-6470.

President's Message: Happy Holidays

By Terry Richison magictwr@charter.net

With all the stress and turmoil in our lives and in the world around us, we as magicians need to take it upon ourselves to bring a little joy into everyone's life that watches us perform. There is nothing more rewarding that to see the smile, hear the laughter of those that we entertain.

During this season of giving, we must not forget those who support us in our endeavors, everyday of our lives. We need to be sure to give a little joy and gratitude to those people. They might be your spouse, your children or even just a friend. They give up much more that we know. Make sure you let them know how much you appreciate them and all they do. Thanks to them, we can spread our magical joy to millions throughout the world. Have a safe and happy holiday season.

Magic 101 December: No Experience Necessary

By Mike Hindrichs magicbymike@att.net

Our theme for December is No Experience Necessary. We will be working on a few of my favorite tricks from one of my favorite beginner magic books, Mark Wilson's Complete Course in Magic.

Also I would like to thank everyone who helped make Magic101 a success this year. I had a great time teaching and learning some really good magic. Next year will be the start of my third year as your humble 101 professor, and I am very excited about some of the material I plan on sharing with you. In addition to just teaching tricks I would like to add a bit of theory and group discussion to support the magic we are working on. If anyone has something they would like to teach the class, please contact me and I can work you into the curriculum.

Below you will find next year's class topics. If there is a particular trick or topic you are interested in learning let me know and we can add it to the list.

2012 Class Schedule:

Jan. May the Force be with you
Feb. Heads or Tails
Mar. The Royal Road Less Taken
Apr. Brain Freeze
May Shuffle, Cut, Repeat
June Scam School
July No Meeting

Spotlight on Membership: Meet Terry Richison

Editor: What is your first memory of magic or a magician?

My first memory of a magician that made an major impression on me, was an adult cast member of a musical I was in when I was twelve. His name was Lewis Bolton. He would perform magic for us during breaks and in between scenes at our rehearsals. I probably kept asking him to perform so much that I had seen every trick he had by the end of the run of the show. Of course it was all close up, but to see those coins disappear and reappear was something that stuck in my mind forever.

Editor: How long have you been involved in magic and how did you get started?

I have been interested since twelve years old but didn't really start performing until I was in high school. I must be truthful, the main reason I started performing in public was because it was a good way to meet girls. I had been involved in a lot of plays and musicals by the time I got to high school and it finally dawned on me that if I put my own show together, I wouldn't have to audition for the part! So that is when I started doing parlor shows, instead of just a few tricks that I always had with me.

Editor: Tell us about your job? Do you find ways to bring magic to your work? How?

I started as an engineer at Boeing and one of the things I got to do was to design a new system involving the work orders that the shop workers used to build the planes. After development, I was asked to teach the, some 17,000 workers that we had in St. Louis at the time. Since the system involved using computers, and at that time not a lot of people had computers, the shop workers were not too receptive of the idea of changing from the old paper method that they had used for years. For the first two weeks it was like pulling teeth to get the students to come to class. But after the first two weeks worth of students got back on the floor and were telling everyone else what a great class it was the classes started filling up. They were telling everyone that I performed magic for them during their breaks and sprinkled it throughout the class also. Things were levitating and vanishing before there eyes. I made learning fun. In a short period of time I had a backlog of students wanting in the class that stretched for several months. The managers couldn't believe the enthusiasm about the class. The word spread quickly and soon I even had vice presidents wanting to take the class, even though they would never need it.

Editor: Tell us something interesting about yourself that we might not know?

When I started college, I was a music major. Because of that, I auditioned and got to perform with Barry Manilow as a back up singer during his "If I should love again" tour.

Editor: Tell us about the magic you perform or would like to perform, where?

How often? What kind?

For many years I mainly performed stage and parlor magic. Being an engineer, I was able to build a lot of my own illusions and props for the grand illusion show. As I got busier, I had to resort to having them made. The grand illusion stage show is probably what I like the best. It molds together the theatrical aspects of staging, dance, music and of course magic. Since it is a two hour show, I have enough time to take the audience through every one of their emotions. Of course having a great crew behind you makes a world of difference too. And I have just that. From a Tech Director with a master in theatre to a lovely assistant that is more talented than what shows on stage, to my first assistant whom I rely on the most to make sure things work and look correctly. It wasn't until some of my Ring 1 friends were teasing me about not knowing anything about close up that I decide to enter some close up contests which I was lucky enough to win. What they didn't know was that I was already doing a lot of close up for corporate parties and such. You have to be well rounded so when the call comes in, no matter what kind of magic the client may want, I will be able to provide them good magical entertainment.

Editor: If you were a magic prop, what prop would you be and why?

That's a hard question. I would guess that I would like to be a grand illusion of some sort. Maybe a sub-trunk. Which is quiet and unsuspecting on the outside, yet very cleverly put together on the inside and able to confound when done correctly. On the close up side, possibly a scotch and soda. A trick that no one has ever caught me on yet.

IBM Ring 1: November 2011 Ring Report

By Sandy Weis sweis@psdr3.org

Mike Hindrichs led Magic 101. He first shared a paper puzzle with the group which his son taught him. It fooled everyone. Once he showed us how it was done, we couldn't believe it was so simple. Then he showed the group two card tricks. The first one was called "Crazy Eights", in which a prediction card is proven correct over and over again. Then he showed us a trick called "Impromptu ACAAN". With this trick, a chosen card is found at the spectator's chosen number. He posts directions to the magic he shares on Ring 1's website.

Ring Announcements were brief. Several new members were introduced. A Reminder that the December meeting is always one everyone looks forward to—lots of food and the White Elephant gift exchange. Mike Hindrichs then explained Project Magic and passed a sign-up sheet for members to volunteer. Each month, magicians volunteer and perform magic for patients at Shriner's Hospital. This partnership has occurred for over 25 years now.

Terry Richison, the President, announced that on November 10th, Tom Craven will give a lecture for IBM and SAM members. Terry also thanked this year's performers at the Purina Haunted Hayloft who were Terry Richison, Tom Westerheide, Alan Zibits, Harry Monti, Larry Skorepa, Don Rataj, Ron Perez, Larry Minth, and George Van Dyke.

Then, members shared their Magical Turkeys (items they purchased which ended up being turkeys). First, Al Zibits shared a trick he purchased in 1982 for $25. He read about the "Wizard Water" in a magazine and couldn't wait for it to arrive. When he opened the box, it contained a jar of water, glitter, and a magnetic quarter. He never could figure out how the glitter magically turns into a quarter. Next, Steve Barcellona based his magic on the premise "is it a turkey or a treasure?" He shared a routine using cards in which the audience participated. Terry Richison once bought magic advertised as a stage illusion. When it arrived, it was actually a Sprit Slate from Royal that was really tiny and cost him $40. Dan Todd then shared the Vanishing Elephant he once purchased. When he received it, it was a little tiny cardboard elephant. Larry Lucy shared a turkey (but it really was a treasure). It was a DVD entitled "Spotlight on Carey" which he highly recommended. Tom Westerheide then shared an experience he had which was rather humorous. He had a gig scheduled for a bank, and he sent a prediction to the lady in the bank beforehand. However, the woman did not work that day, and before you know it—a sheriff and policemen were involved. They eventually believed Tom and gave the box to the lady in the bank who it was originally sent to. He was then prepared to perform for the bank.

After the Magical Turkey stories were finished, attendance prizes were given away (donated by Sister Michael Therese). She is moving and needed to downsize a bit so decided to donate some of her collection with the club.

After the meeting adjourned, members remained and shared magic with each other.

Ring 1 Celebrates 4th Year Performing at the JDRF Walk for a Cure in Forest Park

By Steve Finkelstein

steve.finkelstein@experience-on-demand.com

What a magical day for a great cause. About 20,000 people participated in the JDRF walkathon on October 2nd in Forest Park in the upper Muni parking lot. IBM Ring 1 has adopted the Juvenile Research Diabetes Foundation (JDRF) as one of our top charities. WOW. It is a wonderful feeling to make kids smile and adults act like kids. The event was organized by myself and there were twelve magicians who performed and taught magic non-stop for 3 hours. They included: Terry Richison, Jeff Lefton, Mike Hindrichs, John Reider (and his bubble bus), Dan Todd, Don Rataj, Larry Skorepa, Steve Barcelona, Ray Belz, Steve and Audrey Levitt (the magic teachers) and Steve Finkelstein.

Everyone had a great time not just performing or teaching but working together as a team, sharing ideas and enjoying the magic. We want to encourage other Ring 1 members to join us next year.
